

UPDATE FROM TERRIER WORLD/ETHICS 2

Since the last update when Terrier World published the PDF document exposing the conflict of interests of Handlers Judging at the highest level and even their partners exhibiting at the very same shows and sometimes on the same day; Dog World has now jumped on the 'Bandwagon' and followed our lead – as though they are the first to highlight this sharp practice.

First it was in their [DW] Comment section 31/8/12; then out of the woodwork came Simon Parsons in the 7/9/12 edition; and this week 14/9/12 they have wheeled out Sheila Atter and Jane Lilley commenting on this shitty practice.

Terrier World has some news for them too; we have been running this campaign for three years; as well as exposing Judges who fail to write a Critique, by naming and shaming them.

They - [Dog World] along with Our Dogs have ignored this practice and many others for years. Why? Because they all share the same pot to piss in – all self promoters and 'Professional Schnorrers' easily found in the hospitality tents and restaurants at every major Championship Show, wining and dining together with the shameless ones.

Now that Terrier World has already revealed to all that The Kings and Queens have no clothes on, they [The popular Dog Press] are like the Gadarene Swine scurrying trying to play catch up with their three years too late exposé.

At Crufts 2012 Professional Handler Geoff Corish Judged The Utility Group and in the Toy Group that followed on, his partner whom he lives with exhibited their Bichon Frise Best of Breed winner. Your partner exhibiting in the very next Group after the one you have just judged cannot be ethical. This was at the beginning of the year. Since then others have followed Corish and Coad's shameless example.

Why does the Hierarchy at The Kennel Club actively encourage this particular handler? The answer is simple; it is because they too want to – and are doing - the same thing.
